SUMMER COTTAGE DEMAND GROWING FAST IN VERMONT

Number of Applicants Largely Exceeds Buildings

TOURIST SEASON IS GOOD

Reports to Publicity Bureau Show Hotels Are Doing Good Business

It may be a poor vacation travel season elsewhere, but there is no falling off in the number of tourists coming to Vermont, according to results of a recent survey made by the State Publicity Bureau. Hotels and boarding houses generally report increasing business. Many hotels have been full to capacity and people have been obliged to go elsewhere as they were unable to obtain accommodations. One summer hotel has enlarged its plant by putting up camps and tent bungalows which have been very popular with the guests, and the proprietor expects to put up more next year. Many tourists stop occasionally at the hotels, and automobile camping parties are now frequent sights along Vermont roadsides. They come from every state in the union and Canada. The camps are full in most localities where cottages are rented. Thirty-seven different states are also represented in the boys' and girls' camps bringing thousands of boys and girls and their parents into the state each summer.

The publicity department publishes annually booklets descriptive of Vermont and advertises and distributes these pamphlets outside the State for the purpose of giving public additional information concerning Vermont. Beside numerous publications of interest to the tourist, such as "Motor Tours in Vermont" and "Green Mountains of Vermont," the State also publishes a directory of hotels and boarding houses called "Where to Stop in Vermont," in which any reputable hotel or summer boarding house keeper may advertise free of charge. A list of Vermont farms for sale, a booklet containing lists of Vermont cottages for rent or for sale, and a booklet of summer homes for sale in Vermont, are also published. In all of which any Vermont property may be advertised free of charge. The information herein contained was gathered in an attempt to check up on the value of this advertising.

There are not enough Vermont cottages to go around. One cottage owner in Vergennes writes: "There have been more calls for cottages this season than for the last three seasons put together, and I think there will be more next summer as people are beginning to realize the beauties of Lake Champlain and the mountains."

If every cottage owner had the spirit of the correspondent from Lake Memphremagog, it would not take long to make Vermont the most vacation playground of New England.

"I received letters of application for cottages from Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, and New Hampshire, probably fifteen in number this season," all mentioning the Cottage Rental booklet. I had rented my cottage previous to these applications, but in each case of a letter coming from people reading the booklet, I replied and gave full information regarding other cottages, also a description of our lovely lake and surrounding country. The past few seasons have brought many strangers to us, and I believe the plan of advertising to be a wonderful one for Vermont. I am now trying to purchase land to build another cottage this fall. I believe one hundred cottages could be rented if land could be secured for same around this lake, as I have had many inquiries besides those coming from the booklet advertising. I appreciate the privilege of this opportunity to advertise very, very much."

A cottage owner from Bristol writes: "I think we must have received twenty or more letters in reply to our advertisement of a cottage to rent at Long Point. Many of them wanted a cottage for two months. We had applications from New York City—more from there than from any other one place. Others were from New Jersey, Washington, D. C., and other points in New York. The season at Long Point has been a very good one, cottages in great demand."

Other resorts reporting a season better than the average are South Hero, Highgate Springs, Cedar Beach, Burlington, St. Johnsbury, Stowe and Middlebury. Only in two instances was the season reported not so good as in 1920. Several hotel keepers and camp owners, however, have written that the summer was characterized by a large number of cancellations and have wished that some means might be devised for protection against persons reserving rooms or cottages, who when the time came did not make an appearance.

The tourists themselves have pleasant words for Vermont scenery and the work which the Publicity Bureau is doing. A Philadelphia physician sent the following letter: "I have your communication of June 16th together with the information concerning Cold Spring Camps in Averill, also the three booklets of printed matter, for which I wish to thank you. Cold Spring Camps sounds like a 'real' vacation. I have already written for accommodations."

"I also wish to thank you for your good wishes for a pleasant vacation in Vermont." I have traveled abroad through Italy, France, Switzerland, England, etc., seeing some beautiful country, but in my eyes none to surpass the gorgeous country I witnessed while motoring through Vermont last give me the good old fashion remedies made from roots and herbs in preference to the new fangled patent medicines on the market. I remember that when I had Indigestion, was constipated, had a headache or my stomach was out of order, my mother would give me an old and reliable remedy called SEVEN BARKS and it would straighten me out in no time, so I always keep a bottle in the home for emergencies.

Colds and Grippe frequently will leave you with weak kidneys and aching back. The kidneys get over-worked fighting off a cold or a contagious disease. When the stomach is out of order, the kidneys and liver not working properly, a few doses of SEVEN BARKS will stimulate the liver and kidneys, regulate the flow of bile, expel distressing acids and dangerous poisons, and quickly restore you back to good direction.

For nearly half of a century SEVEN BARKS has been recognized as one of the most reliable remedies for correcting and preventing disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is absolutely safe, made from the extracts of roots and herbs, scientifically blended.

If you have never tried SEVEN BARKS do not fail to do so, and watch the rapid and wonderful results. Your druggist keeps it, or will get it for you.

One person who occupied a cottage at Long Point, North Ferrisburgh, wrote: "The booklets which you so generously provided us at our home in Long Island City, we found two delightful spots in which to spend the months of July and August. Without these very fine publications one would be quite limited as to choice in the matter of a vacation spot in your beautiful State."

These booklets on Vermont distributed by a Vermont congressman to members of the House and Senate brought forth pleasant comments, not only as to the make up of the booklets but also as to the possibilities of Vermont for motor tours.

If the policy of advertising the State is continued, the Publicity Bureau believes it will not be long before Vermont is known not only as a vacation resort but as a commonwealth with the natural advantages of water power, timber, etc., make peculiarly adapted to the establishment of big industries.

COAL BUYERS STILL HOLD OFF

Shortage Later Among Domestic Consumers Predicted

New York Aug. 29.—"Although inquiries for steam coal are becoming more numerous in every market, because of the higher prices quoted on contracts as compared with prices paid on open market by industrial plants, buying continues to be on a hand-to-mouth basis and contracting is practically unheard of," says the Black Diamond.

"Advice from the railroads and Government officials to say nothing of the same suggestion from the coal trade, that steam users take coal in larger quantities has had little effect in the effort to overcome the psychological inertia which the industrial depression carries with it. Consequently screenings in some markets were moving below the cost of production and smaller sizes of coal were extremely weak."

"In some sections there was noted a slight revival of interest by domestic consumers, but in no market was this increased demand a real factor during the week, although it did indicate that a real change was in sight. In some

Of the Dead Past.

A Long Time Since—Can you suggest a nice inexpensive car I can get? "No, nor an inexpensive wife, nor an inexpensive house. Those things are out of fashion."

Busy Life.

"You think eight hours a day is enough work for any man?" "Plenty," answered Cactus Joe. "That leaves him only sixteen hours to play poker and get a little sleep."

Naturally.

"What book in your library is a pronounced favorite with the family?" "Now that you come to speak of it, I guess it is the dictionary."

Illustrations.

"Trouble never comes single." "You bet, it don't. Last year we had double pneumonia in the family, and this year we had twins."

Great Execution.

"The violinist's execution was simply marvelous." "Wasn't it, though? You could see the audience hanging on every note."

Educational.

"Is this an educational film?" "Well, you might call it so. Has some very interesting studies in feline anatomy."

Coming of Age.

We mourn over the coming of age, but how many of us would really choose to remain young and so lose the treasures that the years bring; the varied friendships, the adventures, the garnered wisdom? Perpetual youth would leave us behind our own generation, would rob us of life's purpose and meaning.
